Rearrangement Sale

Begins Tuesday, August 26

Departments of the "Fordyce" Store to Have Radical Changes in Arrangement.

Extraordinary Stock Reducing Sale Will Begin Tuesday Preparatory to the Great Event.

Our Reasons:

For the convenience of our patrons, we are going to rearrange the departments of our store. Our object is to group the kindred departments for the greater convenience of our customers, so that all possible lost motion may be avoided and the busy buyers can make their purchases in the least possible time.

This will mean the tearing out of walls, shelving and display cases in the fourteen different departments of the store, which will cause no end of litter and chaos.

Before doing this we will, by making very low prices, reduce the stocks in all departments to the lowest possible point consistent with fair assortments, so that stocks will be small and easy to handle when we make the change.

Our motto is—"Quick, intelligent and satisfactory service."

Sale Begins Tuesday Morning

"Misers," said the barber, "are men who use safety razors."

A REPUBLICAN HARMONY CONFERENCE.

For the alleged purpose of devising means "to stem the inroads of democracy into the country's prosperity," a republican conference has been arranged for Chicago late in the fall, and the progressives are to be invited to participate. Of course, the motive of the conference is not to stem any inroads into the country's prosperity, but to see if the fragments of the republican party can be gathered up and united again into a fighting machine.

There is nothing alarming in such a conference. After the collapse of the republican party last year, it was inevitable that efforts would be made to harmonize its factions, but there are probably too many republicans remaining in office for such a conference to be more than a preliminary attempt. Those still in office are not going to be active so long as there are any unpunished numbers on their Federal meal tickets.

The "inroads into the country's prosperity" complained of may largely disappear before the weather becomes cool enough for a conference to assemble. Business depression is always an incident of tariff tinkering, largely because of uncertainty as to what changes are to be effected and the time that the new order is to be put into operation.

Most lines of business and industry will speedily recuperate as soon as the new law becomes effective.

No doubt much of the dissatisfaction with the tariff law will be permanent. Some industries may become permanently impaired, especially some of those of the Southern States, where at the present time there are scarcely any republicans at all.

Whether dissatisfaction with the democratic administration is to become permanent can not now be determined before next year's elections. The masses in the industrial centers are on the average better employed than they were a year ago or two years ago, according to the statistics of the department of commerce and labor, but, of course, statistics may not always be relied upon when they are arranged by a skillful juggler. Anyway, the pressing demand in industrial centers continues to be for a reduction in the cost of living, and this the administration expects to bring about. It will take time to enunciate whether the Wilson theory is correct. If it is, then there may be difficulty in convincing the masses that democratic ascendancy has injured them.

A swift revival of business following the enactment of the administration tariff bill, and an easing of monetary conditions resulting from the new currency legislation and improving conditions in Europe, may give the republican conferees and harmonizers some difficulty in formulating an indictment against President Wilson that will suppress the public.

We believe, however, that before 1916 the republicans are going to be able to win back some of last year's deserters, and there is a possibility of new alignments that may enable them to give us a strenuous campaign then.

We have never thought that the returns of last November necessarily indicated permanent tenure for the democratic party. Continued tenure must come as a consequence of successful administrative policies.—Hous-ton Post.

As the Printer Made It.

A story is told of a "printer's error" that once caused consternation in a country village. An arch in the church had become dilapidated and a fund was started for its repair. Upon one occasion, so as to make the appeal more widely known, the rector had a notice regarding the arch fund printed in the village, with the result that on the following Sunday the announcement appeared in large type: "The collection today will be for the arch fund."—The Family Newspaper.

AUSTINTOWN

August 21—Contractor R. O'Rourke is rushing the work of repairing the road between here and Wickliffe farm and hopes to have the job completed before the Canfield fair. The road is now closed and people must detour in going and coming from the city.

A gate on the Fitch farm was left open last Sunday and three steers got into a eight-acre corn field where they remained considerably but the animals will not die.

Mrs. Roy Smith pleasantly entertained a number of Pittsburgh friends last Wednesday.

The May family reunion was held last Wednesday at the homestead and all present most thoroughly enjoyed the occasion.

Edward Creed's daughter, who has been quite sick, is now thought to be out of danger.

Clarence Hopkins was poisoned while cutting briars in fence corners and is suffering much annoyance by reason thereof.

Mrs. Henry Mayer has gone to Buffalo, N. Y., to spend a few weeks with her sons.

People are talking about the big Canfield fair to be held Sept. 9-12.

There is every promise of a big corn crop in this locality.

BETTER ROADS, BIGGER LOADS

State and Nation Join in Making Monster Good Roads Exhibit at State Fair.

Bad roads cost more than good roads. Within the next ten years the state and nation will spend one hundred million dollars for road building in Ohio. This money must be spent in such way as to give value received for every cent. Road construction is the one big task before the state. Every one must help pay and use the public highway. Hon. James R. Mark-er, State Highway Commissioner, and federal officers, have been given one large building at the Ohio State Fair for good road demonstration and instruction. The latest improved machinery, material, methods, manufacture, and means of good road construction will be one of the strong features of the Fair. Ohio's great Exposition will be educational in all respects. Exhibit space is all taken and paid for. A record-breaker is ahead.—Adv.
